

Who are we: Future Focus Foundation is a community based organization working in rural communities in eastern Sierra Leone where marginalization against women, youth and children is highly visible.

Our Vision: A world where the purpose of humanity as the custodian of creation, is promoted through human development, environmental protection, and equitable distribution of resources for the common good of all.

Our Mission: To empower marginalized persons of the rural communities who are voiceless, vulnerable, otherwise referred to as the poorest of the poor especially children, youth and women, so that they can discover their full human potentials that will enable them contribute towards their community and hence national development.

Our Core Values: Our core values include: human dignity and respect, transparency and accountability, collaboration and networking, inclusion and participation at all levels, solidarity, good governance and peace building

Our Aim: The main aim of the foundation is to promote and advocate for marginalized people in rural communities especially vulnerable women, youth and children, by creating an enabling environment where they would be able to voice out their opinions, stand for their rights and work towards the improvement of their socio/economic status and contribute meaningfully to the development of their communities using the rights based approach.

Our Objectives

- To mobilise support to improve the lives of vulnerable groups in rural communities
- To empower women and youths to participate in decision making processes and to increase their economic status
- To strengthen rural communities with livelihood initiatives

Our Team: As a volunteer organization, the management led by the National Team Leader, is comprised of committed and dedicated volunteers with high female representation.

The Foundation benefits from the work of highly motivated and experienced volunteers versed in handling community issues, with a good background on participatory and behavioral change communication (BCC) approaches. Each brings exceptional talents coupled with a passion to address the needs of vulnerable groups in rural communities.

The foundation has a governing body known as “Board of Trustees” comprising of seven well respected personalities, (three female and four male) with a female chairperson. The board provides financial oversight, strategic development and aspiration. Their contributions serve as integral part of our achievements
