Introduction and Background

.(CHRISTIAN RESTORE HOPE SOUTH SUDAN) is national Organization legal entity within Christian Restore Hope and is part of a national organizations passionately committed to ending poverty and social injustice. Our work is inspired by Christian values and a belief that everyone, regardless of faith, race, ethnicity, age, gender or other identity is entitled to live a full life, free from poverty and injustice. An essential part of these values is the obligation and responsibility on us all to tackle injustice whenever and wherever we find it.

Our work is underpinned by a Christian conviction of the humanitarian obligation to work with people of all faiths and none. We are seeking to recruit Board members who share our values and ambition to end poverty, and who will bring leadership experience, international perspective and faith to the role, providing support and guidance to staff and ensuring best practice in governance across all aspects of Christian Restore Hope work in keeping with the Christian values that shape our vision.

What CRH Does?

Influenced by the new development paradigm, which puts people before things, CRH follows a participatory approach in every sphere of its work. The traditional knowledge of the rural poor is valued and respected, and there is confidence that rural people are capable of self-reliant organization. On a practical level, the fundamental thrust of this approach is decentralization and empowerment.

For a community to be able to work for its own development and reduce its dependency there is a need for full involvement at all stages of the development cycle. The participation of communities in identification, planning, management, implementation and evaluation of projects is a key factor in CRH work. Internally a participatory approach is adopted in managing the affairs of CRH.

Externally, CRH. Role as a “change agent” helps to develop community management structures that are capable of managing their own development. This increases the ability of the community to demand accountability in all their affairs, from leaders and officials. It reinforces the community's belief in the value of their own development choices and efforts. These community management structures are not parallel structures, but are built upon traditional institutions, promoting equitable representation and participation

Human resource development is an essential part of our development work. This means ensuring that the community is trained and skilled, as well as organized, to maximize the potential of the community to take hold of its own development.

.CRH strongly believes in maximizing its impact by transferring field experiences into knowledge to influence the development policies and practices of NGOs, donors and government agencies. This is important for working towards the long-term goal of eradicating poverty.

Approach

During the process of social mobilization CRH, Adopted a participatory, self-help, self-sustainable approach through community involvement and formation of volunteer groups in remote rural areas of Baluchistan

Philosophy

Sustainable rural development is a dynamic process posing various needs at different phases of time. These can be dealt with continuous interventions based on designed frameworks that incorporate the requirements projected by the communities and with the help of the communities by strategizing for public-private partnership.

Scope of Work

.CRH has strong linkages with major NGOs and funding agencies working in Pakistan. It has undertaken initiatives in .SOUTH SUDAN with special reference to .AWEIL through collaboration with local CBOs and activists. . CRH joys a rich experience of working in the diverse socio-cultural environment of .SOUTH SUDAN and an extensive networking with the .States&.payam, civil society institutions, media and political parties.

CRH follows the following strategy in implementation of its programmes and projects.

Community/Social mobilization:

CRH while implementing its programme/projects as a first step undertakes community mobilization so that to raise awareness in community on health and hygiene, importance of education in modern day affairs, gender related issues, socio-economic development and environmental protection. For this purpose, CRH management holds meetings with the community members, conducts training/capacity building sessions and also launched campaigns.

Advocacy:

CRH advocacy is achieving better results in the field of social/rural/community development, .CRH also believe in advocacy and therefore, the management has always strongly advocated for the issues related to CRH. For achieving this objective, .CRH through its strong advocacy as approached the line departments of Government of South Sudan, NGOs, CBOs, Civil Society Organizations (CSOs), members of the community, notables and .CRH has always promoted the right based approach and supported the dialogue as an important tool for achieving the above mentioned objectives.

Service delivery:

.CRH is staunch believer in a very strong and efficient service delivery in the fields of health, education and environment. For this purpose, .CRH management has always delivered services in the communities in a transparent manner taking care of quantity and quality. It is only because of this very reason that the .CRH interventions have always helped in meeting the community needs and achieving the desired objectives.

Net Working:

.CRH has always promoted the networking with other NGOs, CBOs, CSOs, media groups and concerned stakeholders for achieving the goal of sustainable development. Networking with other organizations has always proved very productive by playing as medium between the service providers and those at the receiving end. Networking basically provides opportunity for looking at the issues from different angles i.e. from local, national and finally at regional level. At every level the perspective of issue changes, which then helps in comprehending the issue.

Target groups

CRH basically works mainly for the poorest of the poor in the rural areas of the STATE. Its target groups include the men, women and children in the rural communities of the province who are still living in miserable conditions and deprived of very basic necessities of life. Besides, CRH also focuses upon the urban populace living in slums and other such area. For achieving its goal and objective, CRH target groups also include health workers, paramedics and other staff related to health issues, teachers, students, environmentalists and stakeholders in the field of health, education and environment.

Reproductive Health and HIV Prevention

- This thematic area entails following important features for development:
- Establishment of community health centers at remote areas where people don't have access to the health facilities.
- Develop awareness campaigns for HIV prevention, reproductive health; life skills based education and sexual rights.
- Develop immunization programs for venereal diseases and epidemics.
- Organizing events for public health along with government.

Child Protection

- Under this theme CRH focuses on holistic development of children its protection and rights, following interventions are planned over the time:
- Child rights education and protection awareness at different levels and different stakeholders.
- Development of safe learning places for children at schools, hospitals, and community centers.
- Children confidence building programs, walks, sessions, campaigns, and trainings.
- Development of children groups and developing leadership skills in them.

Women Empowerment

Women Empowerment aims at promotion women to take lead role in democratic norms and culture in the operational area. Two types of activities are undertaken in this theme: one aim at building capacities of women and communities and their groups to engage effectively with government and other stakeholders for getting their constitutional and legal social, economic and political rights, the other aims at working directly with state institutions for creating an environment that can guarantee the rights of women citizens. It also focuses on enhancing women income generation skills through capacity building and micro credit. Under this program following sub activities are also conducted:

- Formation of local women groups and their capacity building.

Community Based Infrastructure

Under Community Based Infrastructure development, a wide variety of construction and rehabilitation of rural infrastructure schemes through community participation. Some examples are underground village drainage schemes, community latrines, water course lining, tube wells, and brick pavement in villages.

Free Legal Aid and Education

CRH is providing free legal aid and education through its established firm of senior lawyers to vulnerable and marginalized victims of society particularly to women and children.
