Mr. Roy Malleappah,

Since hearing about Animal Venom Research International, as nonprofit organization working in collaboration with the University of Peradeniya in order to formulate species specific snake antivenom for Sri Lanka, I have been encouraged by your humanitarian mission to aid snakebite victims in Sri Lanka. The formation of your dynamic team and efforts to accomplish this mission are commendable.

In addition to saving lives through the development of an effective antivenom, the transfer of technology brought by your project will create employment for Sri Lankans in the Bio-technology field and eliminate reliance on foreign products resulting in cost savings for the country. Moreover, the antivenom project promises to open dialogue between Sri Lankan universities and academic institutions around the world towards sharing scientific knowledge and resources. I am pleased that these actions will serve the people of Sri Lanka and further the nation’s development.

I am honoured by your invitation to be the patron of Animal Venom Research International in Sri Lanka and gladly accept it. Furthermore, I encourage the team to complete your mission in Sri Lanka for the benefit of the Sri Lanka people.

Thank You,
Yours Faithfully,

Shiranthi Wickramasinghe Rajapaksa
